✍ An American Astronomical Gentleman, now in Europe, has wrote his Correspondent in Boston, that the celebrated Dr. Herschell informed him that a Comet made its appearance on the evening of the 7th of Jan. 1790, but not visible to the naked Eye; and that it was discovered in France about the same time, which was agreeable to the predictions made of its appearance. — Its running near the Sun, was said to be the probable cause of preventing its visibility to the naked eye.

Judicial Department.

THE judicial power of the United States, by the Constitution, extends to all cases in law and equity, arising under the constitution, the laws of the United States, and treaties made under their authority; to all cases affecting ambassadors, other public ministers, and consuls; to all cases of admiralty and maritime jurisdiction; to controversies between two or more states; between a State and citizens of another State; between citizens of different States; between citizens of the same State, claiming lands under grants of different States; and between a State, or the citizens thereof, and foreign States, citizens or subjects.

The judicial courts are divided into the supreme court, the circuit courts, and the district courts; the supreme court has the decision, in the last resort, of matters of law, and of great legal questions of a national and political nature, but has no original jurisdiction, except in these cases, nor has it appellate jurisdiction of any matters of fact, nor cognizance, by writ of error or otherwise, of any matters of law, but where the sums in dispute are of such magnitude as to remove the apprehension of the expence being too heavy for the suitors.

In the circuit courts are tried most of the causes of a civil or criminal nature, cognizance of which appertains to the courts of the Union, and which are of common law jurisdiction, and where the sum in dispute is of greater value than 500 dollars; they have also appellate jurisdiction of admiralty and maritime causes.

In the district courts which are holden in each State, are to be tried crimes and offences of a smaller nature, cognizable under the authority of the United States, and committed within the district, or on the high-sea; all civil causes of admiralty or maritime jurisdiction; all seizures under the laws of impost, navigation and trade; and all suits for penalties and forfeitures incurred under the laws of the United States, and other matters of limited extent.

In all questions of fact, arising in cases of common law jurisdiction, in all the Courts of the United States, the trial is to be by jury; and also in all cases of a criminal nature.

THE following concise Tables for estimating life estates & annuities, calculated for the use of Schools, &c: with an account of their construction and use, were furnished the Editors by James Winthrop, esq; of Cambridge.

THE following Tables are drawn from the large & very valuable work published on this subject by the Rev. Dr. Richard Price, whose name is dear to Americans.— Many tables are omitted which would be of use to persons entering largely into the business of insuring on lives; but as all such persons will recur to his original work, the following tables will be sufficient for what is done in this way by the people at large, and will be easily taught to those, who, having gone thro' their arithmetical studies, are desirous of an application of numbers, that has hitherto been rather wished for than practised among us.

Table I. contains the number of years, that any person within the usual term of human life, may at any age expect to live. For example, a person at the age of 40 years may reasonably expect to live 25 years longer. The use of this Table is, in case we buy an estate, and are to come into possession of it at the death of the person at present living on it; by looking at the column intitled Age for the present year of the incumbent's life, we shall find in the same line, in the column intitled Chance, the number of years that we may expect to live; that is (such a number of years, that as many as come to his age overlive as fall short of it.

Table II. is merely a repetition of the principal sum with all the interest that at any given year has arisen, added to the principal, at 6 per cent.

Table III. Under each year (the first column containing the year) is to be found the value of all the annual payments made till that time, with all the interest that has arisen upon each, cast at a compound rate of 6 per cent. L. 1. being the annual sum. Against the tenth year is L. 13. 3s. 7d. 2s. which is equal to ten payments and the compound interest upon nine of them.

One or two examples will illustrate the use of these Tables.

1. The reversion of a dower is to be sold, and the dower worth £. 3 a year, and the widow 50 years old; what payment must be made out of its present value for the comprance? By Table I. the widow expects to live 18 yrs. By Table II. £. 1. at compound interest amounts to £. 17s. 1d. in 18 years, and by Table III, an annuity of £. 1. amounts to £. 30. 18s. 1d. 1s. To effigate the pre-present value of an 18 years annuity of £.1, state the following proportion, as £.2 17 1 : £.1 :: £.30 18 1 to its principal sum £.10 16 10, but as the real rent of the dower is £.3, the result must be multiplied by 3, and will give £.32 10s. 6d. for the whole value of the widow's inheritance, and this is the abatement which ought to be made out of the sum which the estate would be worth if entered upon immediately.

3. Another example may be drawn from those estates which, like some of our great bridges, are granted for a term of years. Suppose 37 years to remain, and a share to be worth £.9 a year; what is the present value of a share? By Table III, the annuity of £.1 in 37 years is £.127 5s. 4d. half penny, and at £.1. at compound interest at 6 per cent by Table II, is £.8 12s. 8d. 2f. Therefore say, as £.8 12s. 8d. 2f. : £.1. :: £.127 5s. 4d. 2f. to its principal sum £.14 14s. 8d. This answer, multiplied by 9, the annual rent, will give £. 132 12s. for the value required.

In these instances no allowance is made for decay, which the calculator must regulate by common custom.

Now, That though Congress has established that 100 Cents shall be equal to a Dollar, nevertheless they pass in Massachusetts at the rate of 108 for a Dollar.

Examples from the above Table.

Suppose it be required to know how many shillings, &c. (Dollars at 100 cents) are in 47 cents,

By the Table it is shown that 4 dimes, } s. d. f. or 40 cents, contain } 2 4 3 20
Seven cents more, to make up the } 0 5 0 16 required 47, are by the table,

The sum is 2 9 3 36

And if, in the highest place of the decimal fraction, the addition were to come ten or more, so that it could not be set down in that column, the ten or tens must be carried to the farthings. For instance,

If it is required how many shillings, &c. }
(Dollars at 100 cents) are included } in 73 cents; by the table, it is found } s. d. f.
that 7 dimes, or 70 cents, make } 4 2 1 60

And the surplus 3 cents are 0 2 0 64

The addition is 4 4 2 24

Harvard COLLEGE, now UNIVERSITY.

This Seminary was founded in the year 1636, and in 1638 was called Harvard College, in order to perpetuate the name of the Rev. John Harvard, who was a liberal benefactor thereto. The University is situated in Cambridge, a very pleasant town, near five miles from Boston by the way of Charleston, and eight miles through Roxbury and Brooklyn; containing a number of gentlemen's seats. The buildings of the University at present consist of four elegant brick edifices, handsomely enclosed, and stand on a beautiful green, exhibiting a pleasing view:—The names of the several buildings are, Harvard-Hall, Massachusetts-Hall, Hollis-Hall, and Holden-Chapel, (Stoughton-Hall being much out of repair, was a few years since taken down.) The library consists of upwards of 12,000 volumes, (a Catalogue of which has been lately printed, and may be had at the College, or of T. & J. Fleet, Printers, in Boston) The philosophical and mathematical apparatus are supposed to be the most elegant and complete of any in America. It has generally from 150 to 170 students; and from its first establishment to 1790, 35 students have been admitted to Academical degrees. At the first institution of the College it consisted only of a Preceptor, two Ushers, and a Treasurer: Mr Nath. Eaton was the first Preceptor; he continued but two years; after which the following Gentlemen succeeded Presidents to the present time, as vacancies have taken place by death or resignation, viz.

- 1672, Leonard Hoar, M. D.

- 1682, Doct. John Rogers,

Besides the University at Cambridge, there are in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts the following incorporated Academies and Schools for the encouragement of learning & the various branches of the liberal sciences, viz. Dummer Academy, at Newbury, established March 1, 1663, by means of a liberal donation from the Honorable William Dummer, formerly Lieutenant Governor. It was incorporated October 3, 1782, and is under the superintendence of fourteen trustees.

Samuel Moody, A. M. & A. A. S. is Preceptor. Phillips's Academy, at Andover, established April 1, 1778, owes its existence to the benefactions of the notable Samuel Phillips, Esq; of Andover, in the county of Essex, and State of Massachusetts, and the honorable John Phillips, Esq; of Exeter, in the county of Buckingham, and State of New-Hampshire. It was incorporated October 4, 1780, and has twelve trustees.

Ebenezer Pemberton, A. M. is Preceptor. Leicester Academy, in the town of Leicester, was incorporated March 23, 1784. For the encouragement of this institution, Ebenezer Crafts and Jacob Davis, Esq's, generously gave a large and commodious mansion house, lands and appurtenances, in Leicester, for that use. A lottery is granted for repairing the Academy, and making additional buildings thereto.

Samuel Sumner, A. M. is Preceptor. At Hingham is a well endowed School, or Academy, which in honour of its principal donor and founder, is called Derby School. It was incorporated Nov. 11, 1783. At Williamstown, in Berkshire county, is another Academy. Col. Ephraim Williams, has made a handsome donation of lands, for its encouragement and support. It was incorporated March 8, 1785.

Grammar School, in Ipswich; the Act for regulating the same for 21 years in 1765, made perpetual Feb. 1787. The Trustees of the Grammar School in the easterly part of Roxbury were incorporated in February 1789. These Academies have very handsome funds, and are flourishing. The designs of the trustees are, to disseminate true and true piety, to promote the education of youth in the English, Latin, Greek, and French languages, to encourage their instruction in writing, arithmetic, oratory, geography, practical geometry, logic, philosophy, and such other of the arts and sciences as may be thought expedient.

MESSRS FLEETS, the Editors, have again offered to the public another of their annual REGISTER and Pocket ALMANACK, being the Twelfth from the first publication thereof, and principally adapted for the use of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts—It is presumed, that the convenience of such a necessary pocket Companion will always be a sufficient recommendation; though they are sensible, notwithstanding their utmost care and attention, that a work of this nature will constantly require amendments, for it is very difficult, if at all possible, that among such a variety, a collection should be made without some omission, either of names, places of abode, or titles, for the prevention of which, as much as possible in future, upon better information the errors shall be corrected in their next periodical edition:—They return thanks to those Gentlemen in town and country who have hitherto assisted them in the corrections respecting the mistakes therein contained, and will be obliged to them for the continuance of their favours in that or any other respect.—They acknowledge the receipt of Philomatbes's ingenious Tables for the calculation of Interest, &c. by decimal fractions, and another to the same purpose for any number of days; but, one is too lengthy for a Register, and the other too intricate for their brier types.—Another from a Gentleman at Portland shewing the value of Cents, Shillings, pence and farthings, came to hand too late.

BLANK Powers, or Lists of Stock, deposited at the BANK, and other documents commonly used in Massachusetts, may be had of J. FLEET, Editor.
